

Wound Care: Key Skills for Home Care Nurses

Presented Via Zoom on Wednesday, May 14, 2025 from 8:00– 9:00 a.m. Pacific

DESCRIPTION

Enhance your expertise in wound care with this comprehensive session designed specifically for home care nurses. Learn to effectively identify, assess, and manage common wounds, including pressure injuries and lower extremity ulcers caused by arterial insufficiency, venous insufficiency, peripheral neuropathy, and diabetes. This course will provide you with essential skills in wound assessment and best practices in wound management, ensuring the highest level of care for your patients.

Gain confidence in recognizing the signs and symptoms of complications or infections, and understand when a patient may require a higher level of care. Plus, access valuable resource guides on pressure injury assessment, lower extremity wound management, and topical treatment techniques that you can refer to in your daily practice. Equip yourself with the knowledge and tools to improve patient outcomes and deliver exceptional care in the home setting.

OBJECTIVES

- Identify the characteristics of pressure injuries, arterial ulcers, venous ulcers, peripheral neuropathic ulcers, and diabetic ulcers.
- Demonstrate how to assess and describe a wound.
- Discuss overall treatment best practices for pressure injuries and lower extremity wounds.
- Describe signs and symptoms of complications or infection.
